

Students in grades Kindergarten through fifth grade follow Savvas- ReadyGen curriculum for ELA (English and Language Arts) instruction. Writing units are aligned with ReadyGen's reading units. Over the course of the year, students will write a variety of grade-level appropriate pieces covering all genres of writing (argumentative, expository, and narrative). Some of these writing assignments will be formally assessed as the PBA (performance-based assessment for the module), which is a final polished product (summative assessment). Others will be assessed as formative assessments to provide teachers with insight into students' progress in the targeted skills.

In addition to following the formal writing curriculum provided in ReadyGen, students additionally complete creative writing tasks that include but are not limited to journaling, reading reactions, poetry, and responses to reading prompts. These tasks are connected to other areas of content such as science, social studies, and SEL (social-emotional learning).

The language standards are embedded into the writing process according to grade, genre, and task. Additionally, students are provided with explicit foundational skill instruction through Foundations and ReadyGen for Kindergarten through 3rd grade, and in 4th and 5th grade, spelling and word work is based on Ready Gen.
